Date : October 11, 2024

Location : Foreign Trade University
91, Chua Lang, Dong Da, Ha Noi

Conference theme

The world economy has been going through emerging opportunities and challenges for development. After the Covid-19 pandemic, economic recovery has been observed in most economies worldwide. The global supply chain disruptions have been receding. The rise in energy and food prices has slowed down, easing global inflation pressure and causing financial instability to be contained faster than expected. Nonetheless, geopolitical tensions, wars, halted international integration, and persistent climate change continue to challenge the future of the world economy. The World Economic Forum in early 2024 indicated that collaboration and innovation are critical for revitalizing growth and development through global fractures. To address these issues, the 10th International Conference for Young Researchers in Economics and Business (ICYREB 2024) will be organized under the theme "Promoting collaboration and innovation for inclusive development."

The ICYREB Organizing Committee cordially invites researchers, scholars, experts, practitioners, and interested individuals to submit papers to participate in the ICYREB 2024. Topics for these papers shall focus on (but are not limited to) the following topics:

- Circular and sharing economy
- Low-carbon and green economy
- Innovation for inclusive and sustainable development
- International integration and global value chain
- International trade and investment
- Macro-economic stabilization
- Accounting, auditing, banking, and finance
- Technology development and management
- AI, data science, digitalization, and cybersecurity
- Sectorial development and structural transformation
- Productivity for development
- Entrepreneurship and corporate governance
- Social innovation and new business models
- Legal issues and systems
- Issues in political economy
- Economic institutions for innovation and development
- Regional development
- Responses to climate change
- Collaboration to address regional and global challenges
- Leadership for global collaboration and innovation
- Other related topics and issues

- Author's research field
- Title of the paper
- Topic (Choose one of the conference topics)
- Research field of the paper
- Word count of the paper
- Abstract: The abstract section must be written concisely in one paragraph (150 to 200 words), reflecting the main contents of the paper and demonstrating the results, contributions, and new points.

From page 2 (Content)

- Title: The article title should be no more than 20 words, reflecting the article's content directly. The title must be in capital letters, bold, and centered on the page, for example:
- Summary: The summary must be written in a short paragraph (150 to 200 words), reflecting the main contents of the article and clearly showing the results, contributions, and new points of the article.
- Keywords: The author needs to provide 3-5 keywords of the article in alphabetical order, showing the characteristics of the article's topic

Note: For articles written in Vietnamese, the author is required to provide the title and summary (including keywords) translated into English and presented immediately below the summary

- Article structure - must include five main sections:
 1. Introduction or problem statement: (i) the reason for conducting this research and the importance of the research topic; (ii) identifying the research problem; (iii) the main content that the article will focus on resolving.
 2. Literature review, theoretical framework, and research methods: (i) presenting a clear overview of the research and related theoretical foundation; (ii) the theoretical or analytical framework used in the article; (iii) the author can choose qualitative or quantitative research methods or both,

Depending on the approach they choose, they need to show the model, research hypotheses, and data collection methods.

3. Results and discussion: (i) interpreting and analyzing new findings; (ii) drawing the general relationship and connection between the author's research results and the findings of other studies.

4. Conclusion and research implications: depending on the research objective and theoretical implications, the article needs to have conclusions and provide recommendations for business managers and policymakers based on the research results.

5. References: The author only lists the sources cited in the article. The specific citation and reference list presentation formats are regulated in section 4.3.

Presentation technique:

1. The article should be presented in Vietnamese or English using MS Word format, A4 paper size, with a typical length of 8 to 15 pages; font: Times New Roman, font size: 12pt; margins: left 3cm, right, top, bottom: 2cm; paragraph: before 3pt, after 3pt; line spacing: 1.3pt – Multiple.

2. Numbering of headings: In the main content of the article, significant headings should be bold, left-aligned, and continuously numbered using Arabic numerals. Level 1 subheadings (e.g., 2.1) should be bold and italicized, and level 2 subheadings (e.g., 2.1.1) should be italicized but not bold.

3. Presentation of tables and figures: Data tables presented in the article should be uniformly labeled as "Table." Data tables should be formatted as a table in Microsoft Word. The article's graphs, charts, and diagrams should be uniformly labeled as "Figure." Tables and figures in the article should be numbered separately and continuously using Arabic numerals, and the sequence number should be placed after the word "Table" or "Figure" (e.g., Table 1, Table 2, Figure 1, Figure 2). Each table/figure must have a corresponding name that accurately describes its contents. The sequence number and name of the table/figure should be placed horizontally at the top of the table/figure in bold letters. Tables/figures in the article must be cited. The source should be placed at the bottom of the table/figure, with the presentation in italics but not bold. Notes should also be included to explain the table/figure further when necessary.

4. Citation and reference list formatting should follow APA standards.

Similarity check:

1. Papers submitted to the conference will be checked for similarity in advance by, for example, Turnitin or iThenticate.

2. Papers with a higher than 25% Similarity Index will not be accepted for the conference (references are not counted during the similarity check).
